Speakers To Be Invited To Address Taff Economics Club

Several outstanding speakers, including former U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper, are being invited to appear before the N. O. Taff Economics club at Western during the spring semester, the group has announced.

Invitations also have been sent to Dr. James W. Martin of the University of Kentucky and Allan Hicks of the University of Louisville.

The club plans to offer honorary memberships to several prominent business men in this area who will advise club officers concerning topics and speakers on economics and political economy.

Bier Speaks At Art Exhibit

Dr. Justus Bier, Director of the Allen R. Hite Institute of the University of Louisville, spoke in the art gallery at 2 p. m. on Thursday, February 12.

In the informal discussion Dr. Bier named each painting and discussed the techniques used by the artists. He told how this exhibit, sponsored by Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, Inc., Louisville, came to be organized and the purpose of it. In some instances he spoke of the artists' lives, where they studied, and some of their accomplishments.

Approximately forty students, members of the faculty, and people of Bowling Green attended this talk on paintings in watercolor and oils by contemporary Kentucky artists.

Open Tourney By Defeating Aces 83-63

The Western Kentucky Hilltoppers, winners over Evansville in the first round of the OVC tournament last night, will meet the Marshall Thundering Herd tonight at 9:45 in the second semi-final game at the Armory.

Last night the Toppers walked away from the Aces to the tune of 83-63, and made it three in a row over the Indians for the season. In the first game of the tourney Marshall defeated Morehead in the rubber game of their season series by the score of 74-61. In the third and final game of the first round the Murray Thoroughbreds outlasted Tennessee Tech 61-59. Eastern drew a bye in the first round and there fore do not play their initial game until they meet Murray in the first semi-final tilt which will start at 8:00 tonight.

When the Big Red trot on the floor to take on the Thundering Herd it will mark the third time this year the two rivals have met. In the first contest, here on the Hill, the Toppers took the lead after a hard fought first half and went on to win 76-65. The next game which was played over at Huntington, West Virginia, found the Hilltoppers emerging victorious by an 87-82 count.

Tomorrow night at 8:00 the two winners in tonight's tilts will clash in the championship game. If the favorites win it will be a Western-Eastern championship game. So far this season the two arch rivals have met twice, and the point spread was only five points with the Maroons on top. Here at Bowling Green the quintet from Richmond fell short of the Toppers by six points although they made a gallant comeback in the second half closing the gap 69-63 at the end of the game. At Richmond a few weeks later the Red and Gray went down to defeat 73-62 before a packed house of Eastern fans.

The Hilltoppers clinched the regular season crown Monday night with a smashing 92-58 victory over the Evansville College Purple Aces in the Western gym. The win gave Western a record of 11 wins and one loss in the OVC. For the season the Hilltoppers have won 20 and lost 4.

The game Monday night with Evansville marked the Toppers last home tilt of the season. It was also Gene Rhodes' last home game for Coach Ed Diddle. Rhodes has now played in 108 varsity games for Western, an all-time record for a Hilltopper. The speedy guard has started in 85 consecutive games since breaking into the starting lineup at the beginning of the 1949-50 season when he was a Sophomore. Western took fourth in the conference last year behind Eastern, Murray and Evansville. This year, however, they are the leaders at the end of the long trail, and go into the tournament the favorite.

Program Plans Made By AF ROTC Glee Club

Western's Air Force ROTC Glee Club, the first of its kind in the nation, now in its second year at Western, has made tentative plans for several outstanding programs to be given this semester.

Shakespearean Is Chosen For Fifth Anniversary Production Of Players

On April 3, the Western Players plan to present in collaboration with the Leiper English Club Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" as a project of the English department.

The selection was made to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the revival of Western Players.

Variety in Past Since "Dear Ruth," the opening production of the new group in 1947, through the years Western audiences have been treated to an interesting variety in dramatic experiences — "Joan of Lorraine," "Idiot's Delight," "The Contrast," "Life With Father," "The Petrified Forest," "All My Sons," "Southside U. S. A.," "Goodbye, My Fancy," "Kind Lady" — to name a few.

Open tryouts during the past week resulted in the selection of the following people for casting principal roles — Fortia, Sara Downing; Nerissa, Marcia Jackson; Jessica, Ann McKee; Shylock, Bill Bivin; Antonio, Joe Tebores; Bassanio, Bob Short; Lorenzo, Phil Stromovsky; Gratiano, Macon Ray; Launcelot, Joe Kimbrough; Gobbo, Dale Mitchell; Salerio, Sanford Cox; Solanio, Wally Rather; Tubal, Bob Carter; Prince of Morocco, Bill Stephens. Other castings are to be made as the characters are required in the rehearsal of the latter portions of the play.

Cooperation Group Formed Mary Ruth Sumner, Kathryn Smith, Bob Richardson, and Sanford Cox compose the planning committee from the Leiper English Club to work out plans for the collaboration with the Western Players. At the initial meeting of this group, cooperation by members of the English Club in research, in radio publicity, and in school contact promotion were suggested.

"There is a place for the talent, the time, and the ability of all Western students interested in being a part of this project in educational theater. We welcome them to become a part of the production organization. We approach the task of translating Shakespeare to Van Meter stage with sincere respect for the material of the world's greatest dramatist. With the knowledge that it has served well some of the theater's greatest technicians, we believe that our project can provide a constructive experience in play production worth the effort — and that it can be, for our audience, an interesting experience in theater," says Russell H. Miller of the choice of "The Merchant of Venice."

Mind Your Manners

By Evelyn Bailey

Dining out has come to be a rare occasion on most campuses because of the material drains that an education makes on the college man or woman's pocketbook. When such an opportunity comes along, however, we can look forward to it with anticipation and without any fears for we, by now, know how to act (?)

For instance, the girl knows, if she is asked, to suggest a place to dine which is within her escort's budget. She also knows that table d'hôte service is less expensive than à la carte, and it usually gives more than ample choices on the menu.

It is hoped that we know how to hold our knife and fork and when to use a spoon. What you don't know may embarrass you, so find out everything you need to know beforehand so you can feel at ease and enjoy the meal.

One of the most embarrassing predicaments to be in is not to know what you are ordering. Rarely does a menu appear that does not have on it one or more foreign words or terms relating to a food. The following, with which you may or may not be familiar, frequently appears.

(Pronunciations are suggested, the capitalized syllable being the accented one.)

À la jardinière (ah la jar de NYAR)—with vegetables.
Anglaise (ANGH-lahzh)—English style, something plain.
Asperges (ah SPERÖZH)—asparagus.
Au (oh)—with.
Boeuf (buf)—beef.

Bombe (bomb)—frozen pudding.
Café (ka-FAY)—Coffee, coffee house or restaurant.

Canapé (ka-na-PAY)—bread cut in small shapes fried, toasted or plain, or small crackers topped with highly-seasoned food.

Champignon (sham-pee-NYON)—mushroom.

Filet mignon (FEE lay mee NYON)—a steak or beef tenderloin.

Fricassee (frik oh-SEE)—meat or fowl fried, then simmered in gravy made of its own fat.

Promagie (frow MAZH)—cheese.
Glace (glah SAY)—grazed, iced, or frozen.

Jambon (zahn BON)—ham.
Lyonnaise (li NAZH)—vegetables cut in small strips, or clear soup containing same.

Mousse (moos)—light ice cream.

Oeuf (uf)—egg.

Pain (pan)—bread.

Petite pois (pee tee PWA)—green peas.

Plat de jour (plah dee ZHOOR)—plate of the day, food ready.

Demi tasse (dem i TASS)—half cup, after-dinner coffee.

Pomme (pom)—apple.

Ragout (ra GOO)—stew.

Viande (VEE ahnd)—meat.

Musical Notes

By Seymour Spiegelman

The chapel concert to be presented by the orchestra on Wednesday, March 5, will include a number of light concert pieces. Among the selections to be played, will be several North American folk tunes and South American rhythmic numbers.

The 30-voice A Capella Choir under the direction of Robert S. Pearson, sang a program in Russellville on Wednesday morning February 20. In response to Russellville's invitation to give an assembly program, the choir rendered selections ranging from 18th century compositions to modern American folk tunes.

Russellville's director of music is a Western graduate, Hazel Oates Carver.

The State High School Band Clinic will be held in the new fine arts building on the University campus at Lexington today and tomorrow. The Band Clinic is held alternately at Western, U. K., and the University of Louisville.

Dr. Hugh Gunderson, head of the music department, and Mr. Thomas Ayres, director of the Western Band, and several music students are attending the Clinic. Dr. Gunderson and Mr. Ayres are to take part in the program.

Following the recent community concert appearance of the eminent cellist, EDMUND KURTZ, Mr. Kurtz was entertained in a small gathering which included some of the Western faculty and students.

At that time Mr. Kurtz said that the life of the concert artist was not at all easy.

He said that he had traveled around the world about seven times, had played with most of the major orchestras of the world and under most of the major conductors. He said that if he had it to do over again he believed that he would take up surgery, a field which has always held the second most place in his heart.

As another OVO weekend rolls around we are in great hopes that the Western student body will be well represented among the enthusiastic fans at the tournament.

reads the backing of every student on the Hill. What better way is there to prove your support than to be at the tournament, cheering when they hit—sighing when they miss.

Basketball at its best you will see if you attend the tournament, for the OVO is recognized as one of the toughest conferences in the nation. Each team in the tournament has a strong team this year and there is no way of picking a champion until that final whistle blows on Saturday night.

SENIOR CLASS DUES

Margaret Griffin, president of the senior class, has made a special request to all members of the 1952 senior class that they pay their class dues before the tentatively set deadline of March 21.

Before considering yourself a member of the senior class, you should make it a point to have your dues paid. These dues are very necessary for the many activities of the class. Especially does the need for them become obvious in planning for the senior banquet and the memorial which is to be left to the school.

GRADES vs SLEEP

Everyone will agree that to make good grades and still get all the sleep he would like to have is the next thing to an impossibility. Quite often the student finds himself awake in the wee hours of the morning reading all his lessons for the next day, for he knows the terrible consequences if this isn't done. Invariably the student finds himself losing a lot of sleep to get all his outside readings.

There are ways in which a person may catch up on some of the lost sleep during the daytime. Here are some helpful hints.

Sometimes it is possible to grab a few winks during a class period, especially if the class is one which seems to drag around the end of the day. One thing to remember when trying this stunt is to do a lot of careful planning before hand.

First, select a seat well back in the middle row directly in front of the teacher's desk. This way the teacher will have to look through other students to see you, and there isn't as much danger of getting caught. Some instructors do not consider it ethical for students to be sleeping during their lectures.

Second, be sure you have a good friend in the class who doesn't mind letting you borrow his notes. (This friend should be one who doesn't sleep during classes.) Even though you sleep on class time, it is still necessary that you have the proper information to pass tests.

Third, either have an alarm wrist watch or keep an alarm clock concealed in your coat pocket. Otherwise you might find yourself waking up in the middle of a class in which you couldn't answer questions even if you had been awake.

Another way to obtain that neglected sleep concerns the student who is fortunate enough to have an open period during the day. It is rumored that the couches in the Vets Room of the Library make most excellent beds for a quick fifty-minute nap.

If neither of these solutions work for you, then it seems the only thing to do is to drink plenty Goul Post coffee (preferably black). Then you are sure not to go to sleep.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

If a college student never learns anything else, he certainly picks up a lot of new words for objects which are familiar to him. Sometimes he even has the pleasure of adding a few words to the vocabulary of his teachers.

Of course it really makes no difference which name is given to an object so long as it is understood, but it is sometimes humorous to note these differences.

Just the other day a student asked a teacher if there was a pencil trimmer in his office. This teacher had never heard the expression before and there followed a discussion over whether it should be called a pencil trimmer or a pencil sharpener. Which do you think? The best thing to do is compromise and say they are both right.

Another expression which a lot of us have never heard is one in common use in some parts of the country for a juke box. A roommate of two years taught me this one. "Someone put a nickel in the Piccolo," he said one night when we were listening to a juke box.

There are a great many of these colloquial expressions at Western. Learn every one of them you come across because you may have occasion to use them in the future.

This Is America

Today when men declare to me,
"Democracy is dead,"
I think again and pray again
For all the men who've died;
And then a hush comes o'er my thoughts,
And then a tear is shed,
To think that men still die today,
For that thing, they say, is dead.

These were the thoughts of our business manager, Raymond Cravens, in his poem "Pondering," which was this year accepted for publication in the "Annual Anthology of College Poetry."

No, democracy is not dead, for THIS IS AMERICA—the country founded on the four freedoms. Democracy is that one fundamental quality which must necessarily exist if this nation is to prosper. As Americans we are not a particular race but a varied people, composed of representatives of every racial and religious group on earth. In this lies at once our strength and our possible weakness; for national unity is a MUST if this Republic is to survive in these perilous times.

Yet, there are people who would seek to destroy this country. That is a fact which we must recognize. These people, our enemies, know internal discord in this country is their best weapon. This is one reason why particular emphasis should be placed on the observance of Brotherhood Week, which is in progress now.

Fellow Americans are stationed all over the globe today fighting for peace and a world of true brotherhood. This year Brotherhood Week takes on a tangible significance. In 1952 the observance is focused on the need for sharing civilian blood with our Armed Forces. This is one item which we, as college students, can afford to give because it is readily replaceable. And it is replaced with no conscious effort on the part of the giver.

Observing brotherhood during one week of the year is not enough if this nation is to maintain the unity which it must have. Through each day of every year we must live as true Americans, and there is a multitude of things which we can do. For instance, all Americans can deal with people as individuals without generalizing about groups. We can make friends in all religious, racial and ethnic groups. We can challenge prejudiced and bigoted statements quietly with moral principles and with facts. We can give good example by living as citizens according to religious and democratic principles which call for fair play and equal justice.

Giving blood at each and every possible opportunity is the least we can do. Meanwhile let us carry into the classroom and all other activities the principles of brotherhood and truly American democracy. As college students training to be the leaders of tomorrow, we, more than anyone else, should do this.

One of the great lessons of our American heritage is not only the right but also the spontaneous willingness of our leaders of various religious beliefs to sit down together for the promotion of the basic ideal of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, which is the essence of democratic life.

Francis P. Matthews
United States Ambassador to Kiev

Brotherhood among all mankind is an ideal toward which to strive, a moral measuring rod with which to evaluate ethical behavior. Too frequently today the term is carelessly used and superficially defined until a whole lexicon of clichés has evolved around it.

Library Receives Books From Taff Collection

A collection of nearly five hundred volumes of economics and sociology books from the library of the late Dr. N. O. Taff, head of the economics department from 1924 to 1931, has been presented to the college library by Mrs. Taff.

Dr. Taff was a scholar and a discriminating reader in his field. This fine selection of books on economics, sociology, banking, and present-day social problems, which was kept in the economics department, will be useful additions to the collection of economics books which he had helped to build up in the library.

Always on the look-out for good books, his purchases for his own collection and his recommendations for the college collection were for the best, the worthwhile. The numerical size of the collection did not appeal to him, but the value of the individual book and the rounding out of the general collection appealed to him strongly.

A bookplate will be selected by the N. O. Taff Economics club and will be placed in each of the books in this collection.

No. 34...THE FERRET

Descended from a long line of distinguished researchers, this studious scholar has burned too many gallons of midnight oil to gloss over a subject lightly. Especially such an important item as cigarette mildness. He burrowed into the matter with his usual resolution and concluded that a "quick puff" or a "fast sniff" doesn't offer much evidence. Millions of smokers agree there's but one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Kentucky Building News

By Seymour Spiegelman

The radio program originating from the Kentucky Building has been broadcast for about seven years now. The program is presented by members of the library and museum staffs.

Since January of this year, the style of this program has been changed. Now the program is in the form of a quiz on Kentucky. So far this year, answers have been received from residents of Warren, Butler, Simpson and Edmundson counties. Prizes for the best answers each week are given by the Kentucky Building with the cooperation of WLBH, the station over which the program may be heard every Friday at 4:45 p.m.

Students should find this program particularly interesting, and are invited to listen and to send in their answers.

In addition to the many Warren county items already in the Kentucky Library, Mrs. Vernon Hardcastle has copied the first seven deed books, and indexed copies of these books will soon be available to the public.

On Monday evening, February 25, Mrs. Frank Moore, librarian of the Kentucky Library, will give a short discussion of the music collection in the library during the program given regularly over station WLBH by the Music department of Western.

Cardinals Start Preparing For District Tourney

The College High Cardinals who are on top in this district in basketball are beginning to prepare for the coming tournaments which will start with the district at the Bowling Green High gym the week after OVO.

College High, under the brilliant coaching of former Western star John Oldham, will be in the tourney with eight teams from this section including Bowling Green High, and Warren County High. This, the seventeenth district, is supposed to be one of the toughest in the state this year, and it is just about a toss up as to who the victor will be.

Warren County has defeated the Cardinals, but College High has turned around and beaten teams that have taken Warren County in their stride. So it is easy to see that this will be a tough test for any and all the teams to come out on top in the tourney.

Talisman Dummy Soon To Be In Printer's Hands

The 1952 Talisman, as large as any ever published by the college, is soon to be on its way to the press. The layout committee, including Editor-in-Chief Betty Boyd, Assistant Editor Evelyn Bailey, and Art Editor Joe Kimbrough, will leave by bus at 7:30 next Friday morning for Fowler, Ind., taking with them the completed dummy plan of the annual.

At Fowler the committee will confer all day tomorrow with the printer, the Benton Review Publishing Company, and will leave there Sunday morning, returning to Bowling Green at approximately 7:30 Sunday night.

Mr. J. R. Whitmer, sponsor, carried the committee, together with Sam Palmer, sports editor, to Louisville February 9 for a final consultation with Mr. John B. Scully Jr., president of Bush-Krebs Engravers.

This year's staff was able to begin work six weeks earlier than did the staff of 1951, and it is hoped that no delay will be made in this progress while the dummy is in the hands of the printer.

The finished product is due to be in the hands of the student body on the day following the Talisman Ball, the date of which has been tentatively set as May 9.

Much planning, expense, and hard work have gone into the make-up of the Talisman in order to make it as fine a representation as possible of the 1952 graduating class and Western.

It was announced last week by Mr. Whitmer that three more members have been added to the '52 staff. They are J. G. Keown, Annabelle West, and Robert S. Richardson.

William T. Kimbrough Dies Last Sunday

William T. Kimbrough, 37, teacher at Caverna High school, was found dead in bed at his home on the Porter pike about noon last Sunday.

The death was caused by a heart condition.

Mr. Kimbrough was graduated from Western in 1949 and also had attended the Bowling Green Business University. He taught mathematics and commercial subjects at Caverna High.

Weatherby To Speak At Topper Dinner

The Bowling Green Junior Chamber of Commerce will give a dinner for the 1952 Western Hill-topper basketball team on March 7, at the Boots and Saddle Club.

The dinner is an annual affair for the cage team, and will be topped off with several speeches by prominent men in this Kentucky area including the guest speaker Governor Lawrence Weatherby.

Student Union Building Promised In 1952

By Kathryn Smith

A dream is coming true for Western students. Huge trucks and machinery roll over the campus daily as the long-awaited Student Union Building is going up.

Located on the crest of the Hill between the Cedar House and Potter hall, it will complete the inner circle of buildings, which includes Cherry Hall, Van Meter hall, and the Library, in addition to those just named.

J. Maurice Ingram and John F. Wilson, of Louisville and Lexington, the same architects who designed McLean hall, drew the plans for the new building.

At present only the basement and the first two stories of the proposed plans are being built. Rise in construction costs prevents completion of the third story now, according to Dr. Paul L. Garrett, president of Western. The roof will be finished in such a way that the third floor may be added at some later date, when funds are available, he continued.

Cost: $300,000

Most of the first floor of the $300,000 building will be used to provide space for a modern cafeteria and dining hall. Small rooms with fold-away doors will be used for private groups, or, with the doors open, to enlarge the dining room space. Also on the first floor are the kitchen, and a snack bar.

The basement will provide storage space for the kitchen, restrooms, and dressing rooms.

A large lounge will occupy most of the second floor. At one end of the lounge will be a large room for ping pong and other games. At the other side of the lounge, the plans call for a "browsing room" with a library, piano, record player, and record cabinets, which students may use for relaxation during their free hours.

Also on the second floor are to be three small rooms for various purposes. Dr. Garrett expressed hope that one would eventually serve as the College Heights Post office. Others, he said, will serve as student meeting rooms, making it possible to hold club meetings closer to the dormitories and other student activities of the Western campus, rather than at the Kentucky building.

Entrance Faces Hill

The main entrance of the building will be from the center of the Hill, facing the flag pole and water tower. This entrance will lead to the second floor, for the geographical conditions on the Hill necessitate construction of the building on two levels. Inside the main entrance will be a memorial lobby to the Western veterans of World War II.

Interior decoration of the structure has already been planned, Dr. Garrett stated. The walls are lined with tile up to the chair rail, above the tile on the walls of the first floor, the wainscoting is Fabron, the same kind of material that is used on the walls of the play room in McLean hall. On the second floor, the wainscoting is wood. Samples of the material show that it is a grey-stained birch wood, in keeping with the modern decor of the interior.

Terrazo On Floors

Floors are to be laid with Terrazo, a well-known flooring material like that used on the second and third floors of the Library. The Terrazo used in the dining hall is to be brown and white. In the upstairs lounge and game rooms it is to be green and white.

The third floor that cannot be added now because of building costs would have contained the ball room. About $200,000 will be needed to add the top story.

College officials had worked on the plans for more than two years before construction was actually begun last fall. Before Architects Ingram and Wilson drew the plans, Dr. Garrett and Mr. Ingram visited the campuses of 10 colleges and universities which have student union buildings to obtain ideas for the structure. They feel that they have incorporated the best ideas from each one they saw into the plans.

Student Poll Being Taken By Juniors

At junior class meeting held in Cherry Hall, February 13, plans were made for a student poll to be taken by the members of the class. Some of the questions which are being asked in this poll are as follows:

1. Should Western have a pep squad to encourage athletic events?
2. Should Western have more social events, and if so, why type?
3. Do you think students should keep off the grass to better preserve campus beauty?
4. Do you think Western's intramural athletic activities satisfactory?
5. Should an advisory committee composed of selected seniors and faculty members be established to help students plan their curriculum?
6. What would improve chapel attendance?
7. What would improve class meeting attendance?
8. What would improve the school spirit or ESPRIT DE CORPS of Western?
9. What can be done to prevent cheating?
10. Should Western's staff include a person whose sole job would be to regulate and correlate student out-of-class activities?

Western Debate Team Saw Final Action At Home Tuesday

Western's inter-collegiate debate team saw action at home for the last time this season when they engaged Murray State college on Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Little Theater of Western's Library building.

The national inter-collegiate topic — Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Adopt a Permanent Program of Wage and Price Controls — was used. The debates in this exchange were non-decision with critic judges by mutual agreement of the two teams.

In the first round, Western's affirmative team, William E. Bivin and Raymond Craven, debated the negative team from Murray at 2 p.m. In the second round of the match, Murray's affirmative team engaged Western's negative team, Thomas T. Pogue and David McFord.

Alternates David Field, George Woodcock and Hamilton Alford acted as timer and dogmen. Alternate David Hawkins presided as chairman for the matches.

On February 28, the Western teams journey to the University of Louisville to complete the exchange of matches. On March 4, they complete the season with the return trip to Murray State college at Murray.

George W. Woodcock, Jr., junior from Brownsville, has been appointed CHESTERFIELD campus representative at Western by Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc.

The position will mean valuable experience in merchandising, advertising, promotion and public relations for the student representative.

"Democracy In Action" Theme Is Inaugurated

Newly elected officers for the Congress Debating Club are cooperating with the speech classes on a different type of program for the semester.

Feeling that altering the program in favor of group dynamics and discussion might be more beneficial than the traditional series of debates, the program of "Democracy In Action" was inaugurated at the February 11 meeting.

The basic idea is to present in various types of discussion current and local problems pertinent to student life today or tomorrow. This idea has been followed for some time by Northwestern University and other members of the Big Ten Conference of the Mid-West.

At the organizational meeting held in the Little Theater on Monday evening, February 11, six groups were organized to prepare and present the discussions in whatever form they might choose. The officers of the club cooperating with Mr. Miller, speech instructor of the English department, are Charles Shields, William E. Blvin, and James Bryant.

Tentatively the program set up at the last meeting was as follows:

February 25, Group I, Frank Busse, Leader, Ann Hendricks, Recorder, Topic: What is the basis for the elimination of a Commercial Department from the curriculum of Western State College? March 10, Group II, David Hawkins, Leader, Catherine Winfrey, Recorder, Topic: Should Western accept colored students? March 24, Group III, Bob Pate, Leader, Jeanne Pfister, Recorder, Topic: Should the U. S. have universal military training?

April 7, Group IV, Russell Garr, Leader, Lowell Stewart, Recorder, Topic: Should we go all out and fight "Red"? April 28, Group V, Herbert Ginger, Leader, Marcia Winfrey, Recorder, Topic: Should the U. N. Forces bomb Manchuria? May 12, Group VI, Don Walker, Leader, Jim Pickens, Recorder, Topic: Can Bowling Green control juvenile delinquency?

These meetings will be held in the Little Theater at 7:15 on the dates listed. The business session to be conducted between 7:15 and 7:30 will precede the regular discussions. All the meetings are open to the public and students and members of the faculty and staff are invited.

Brotherhood is American democracy saying: We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights.

In 1937 Slavenska toured with her own dance ensemble in France, Latvia, Sweden and North Africa. In 1939 she joined the world famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in Europe as prima ballerina, and came to America with them in 1940.

After touring America with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo for five years she organized her own company and is now enjoying her seventh triumphal year heading her own great company and appearing in the larger musical centers of both the U. S. A. and Canada.

Book Marks

By Alicia Hawkins

The following is a list of the best sellers of 1951 based upon sales, through bookstores only, and listed in order of sales.

Fiction: "From Here to Eternity," by James Jones; "The Caine Mutiny," by Herman Wouk; "Moses," by Sholem Asch; "The Cardinal," by Henry Morton Robinson; "A Woman Called Nancy," by Frank Yerby; "The Cruel Sea," by Nicholas Monsarrat; "Melville Goodwin, U.S.A.," by John P. Marguard; "Return to Paradise," by James A. Michener; "The Foundling," by Cardinal Spellman; and "The Wanderer," by Mika Waltari.

Non-fiction: "Look Younger, Live Longer," by Gaylord Hauser; "Betty Crocker's Picture Cook Book"; "Washington Confidential," by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer; "Better Homes and Gardens Garden Book," "Better Homes and Gardens Handyman's Book"; "Your Income Tax, 1952," by J. K. Lasser; "The Sea Around Us," by Rachel L. Carson; "Thorndike-Barnhart Comprehensive Desk Dictionary," edited by Clarence L. Barnhart; "Pogo," by Walt Kelly; and "Kon-Tiki," by Thor Heyerdahl.

It is interesting to note that nearly seven years after the end of World War II an Army novel, with its finale in the war, tops the fiction sales of the year, and three other novels with war backgrounds are high on the list.

Novels with religious themes took third, fourth and ninth places. There were only two historical novels on the list, in contrast with three in 1950 and more than half of the 1949 list.

Some of the novels in the next flight, those that did not make the first ten, were: "The Iron Mistress," by Paul Wellman; "The Balcony Wheel," by Taylor Caldwell; "The President's Lady," by Irving Stone; "Proud New Flags," by F. Van Wyck Mason; "The Troubled Air," by Irwin Shaw; "The Catcher in the Rye," by J. D. Salinger; "Wait for the Wagon," by Mary Lashwell; "The High Calling," by James Street; and "Joy Street," by Frances Parkinson Keyes.

Strangely enough there were more longer-lived novels during the year than there were non-fiction titles. Twelve novels appeared on the charts for six or more months each, only 10 books of non-fiction. The only book that was listed for 12 months was "Kon-Tiki." "Look Younger, Live Longer," "Out of This World," and "The Caine Mutiny" were on for nine months.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Rice of Paintsville announce the birth of a daughter, Catherine June Rice, on February 2. Mr. Rice received his BS degree from Western in 1949.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howard, of Detroit, Michigan, announce the birth of a daughter, Helen Eileen, on January 18. Mrs. Howard is a former member of the mathematics department of Western, and Mr. Howard is a graduate of the college.

Mia Slavenska

year Slavenska has returned in triumph to the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo as guest star of their New York, Boston and Chicago spring season and each summer has danced with them as guest star in the Hollywood Bowl.

Slavenska's supreme success as the star in Hollywood's famous motion picture "Ballerina" was so great the film has been re-issued. The Slavenska Ballet is the largest and most important dance attraction to appear in Bowling Green since the famous Andreas Pavley Ballet was presented in 1926 in the All-Star Concert Series.

Two years in preparation, Cornelia Otis Skinner's "Paris 90" comes to the Cox theater in Cincinnati for one week's engagement, ending Sunday, Feb. 24, with a matinee on Saturday.

"Paris 90" revolves about the colorful women of the Toulouse-Lautrec period, with backgrounds ranging from Montmartre to the Faubourg St. Germain. In presenting this new gallery of fabulous characters, from a fabulous era, Miss Skinner recreates episodes from the lives of 13 sharply contrasting Parisiennes, including three who have been immortalized in the posters and drawings of Lautrec. Miss Skinner departs from her straight dramatic roles of the past and sings a number of special songs.

The setting for the play has been designed by Donald Oenslager. The costumes for Miss Skinner's 13 changes are by Helene Pons. The special musical score is by Key Swift and will be performed by an orchestra under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkert.

Brotherhood is common sense saying: Get rid of your prejudices in order to live peacefully with yourself and your neighbors.

Seniors Hear Attorney Speak

J. T. Orendorf, Bowling Green Attorney who teaches criminology at the Bowling Green Business University, was guest speaker at the February 13 meeting of the senior class.

During his talk entitled "Crime," the speaker said that crime costs $15,000,000,000 annually and that forty per-cent of the news space in metropolitan newspapers is devoted to crime. Mr. Orendorf stated he believes that every person who commits a crime is in some way in a departure from the normal.

Education was emphasized by the attorney as one thing which can help to remedy the crime situation.

During the business session of the meeting, Margaret Griffin, president of the class, urged that class dues be paid by a tentative deadline of March 5.

Also discussed was an all student chapel which the senior class is sponsoring on April 16.

February, The American Month

By Evelyn Bailey

February, because of its contribution of two great men of democratic wisdom should revive in our minds and hearts the realization that we are living in a democracy. In this month was born a man destined to be the father of our country, the greatest in the world. In this month was born a leader who declared that all men are created equal, and who made this inalienable right live in America.

A democracy is a form of government in which the supreme power is vested in the people. Thus it was created and defined by men like Washington and Lincoln whose strength was in their minds to fashion and build such foundations for a nation that would not perish from the earth.

A democracy could be the most despotic form of government in the world if curbs were not placed on the overall power of the majority. We have that curb — our Constitution. By its steadfast laws we can and must abide and be protected from any such disaster.

A democracy, in order to function and prosper, must be a working organization truly of, by, and for the people. Governmental officials must serve only in a guidance capacity, and let the desires and needs of the people be manifest and governing. Just as on a football team, the coach must inspire and direct, but there is no possible way of winning the game if the players do not carry the ball.

We college men and women are going to be among those "carrying the ball" for our country in a few short years. Are we going to carry it to a "democratic victory," or will we let it fall short of the goal line? Could we, in our laxness of duty, be so weak as to break the chain of victories that began on this grid in 1789? Victories that have been won over great odds and various obstacles to keep our country free, democratic, and "on top" of the world.

Cinch Crown With 92-58 Win Over Evansville Aces

Western's Hilltoppers cinched their regular season Ohio Valley Conference championship Monday night with a smashing 92-58 triumph over the Evansville College Purple Aces in the Western gym.

The win gave Western a record of 11 wins and one loss in the OVC. For the season the Hilltoppers have won 20 and lost four, excluding last night's tournament game.

The Hilltoppers tangled with the Aces again last night in the opening round of the OVC tournament. They drew into the upper bracket along with Marshall, Morehead and Evansville.

Eastern, Murray and Tennessee Tech drew into the lower bracket. Western has two more season games to play after the tournament. The Hilltoppers will meet Kentucky Wesleyan in the Sportscenter at Owensboro on Feb. 27. On March 3 the Hilltoppers will meet the powerful Bowling Green (O) Falcons at Bowling Green, Ohio.

Last Home Game

Monday night's game with Evansville marked the last home game

Last Monday night's game against Evansville marked the last game in Western's gym for the famous Hilltopper guard, Gene Rhodes. When Rhodes was introduced before the game, fully two minutes were consumed by the cheering crowd in giving the Topper a last ovation. This was the greatest ovation ever given to any Hilltopper.

During the game, Rhodes topped all scorers with 21 points, all from outside the free throw circle as he turned in one of his most brilliant performances.

of the season for the Hilltoppers. It was also Gene Rhodes' last game for Coach Ed Diddle in the Western gym. The only senior on this year's Hilltopper squad, Rhodes has now played in 109 varsity games for Western. Since breaking into the starting lineup at the beginning of the 1934-35 season when he was a sophomore, the speedy guard has started in 85 consecutive games.

Every other member of the squad which helped carry Western to the OVC season title and makes them a strong contender to win the tournament, will be back next year. The Hilltoppers came back this year to take the regular season title after finishing in fourth place last season. Their return as one of the nation's strongest teams is largely the result of the play of three sensational sophomores and one junior who moved up from a substitute's role last season, plus Rhodes' outstanding performance as a playmaker and floor general.

Art Spoelstra, 6-8 center, Tom Marshall, 6-4 forward, and Dan King, 6-6 forward, are the three sophomores. Richard White, 5-10 guard, is the junior. Reserve power for Coach Diddle consists of Dick Smith, 6-6 junior center or forward; Monte Beard, 6 foot guard; Dyke Vest, 5-11 sophomore guard; Kay Greer, 6-4 sophomore center or forward, and Lynn Cole, 6-3 freshman forward.

Spoelstra, Leading Scorer

Spoelstra is the leading scorer with 362 points, and an average of 15.1 per game. Next is Marshall with 346 points, averaging 19.2. The big Tennessean has played in only 18 games, having missed six early season tilts because of a sprained ankle. Marshall holds a shooting percentage of 50.9. Spoelstra's shooting percentage is also 50.9. Both players rank among the top ten in the nation in that department. Marshall is 19th in the nation in scoring.

Spoelstra has pulled down 262 rebounds to lead in that department for the Toppers. Close behind is Marshall with 261.

The team's deadly long shot artist, White, ranks third in the scoring with 312 points. King is fifth with 264 points. He has pulled off 210 rebounds.

Dan King Leads Toppers In Ninth OVC Victory

A 6-foot-8 red head from Paris, Tenn., surely lived up to his name on February 12, as he reigned supreme over the Thundering Herd of Marshall.

Dan King led the Hilltoppers to their ninth victory in ten OVC starts by dumping in 12 of 15 shots from the corners and in close, plus five of six at the free throw line for a grand total of 29 points for the evening.

At the end of a high scoring first quarter the Toppers trailed the home team 30-26. They managed to come back in the second period, however, to push into the lead as the half closed 45-39. With King paving the way the Big Red wound up the third frame ahead 63-52. At this stage of the game the big red head had 26 points to his credit.

It was another King who almost killed the Red and Gray in the second half as Sid King of Marshall totaled 23 points for the night and with the help of Jim Lamb and Walt Walowac, who had scored 36 on our floor a few weeks before, cut Western's 15 points lead to three as the game came down to the homestretch. With the score 63-59 and three minutes to play Tom Marshall loosed himself for a drive-in and then passed in to Art Spoelstra in the closing seconds to assure us of the win.

Gene Rhodes was the only starter failing to score over ten points in the game, but Gene had a special job, and that was to keep Mr. Walowac from tabbing another 36 points. Rhodes was successful in his task, too, holding Walowac to five buckets.

White Honored At Rotary Luncheon

Richard White, sharp-shooting Hilltopper guard from Scottsville, Tenn., was honored by the Scottsville Rotary club at noon, February 15, with an elaborate luncheon in the Jacksonian hotel, Scottsville.

The rest of the basketball squad, two managers, the two coaches, Mr. Kelly Thompson, and Dr. Paul Garrett accompanied White to his home town. The Rotary club presented Dick with a check to dispose of as he saw fit. The rest of the lunch was taken up by speeches made by Coach E. A. Diddle, Assistant Coach Ted Hornback, Mr. Thompson, and President Garrett, and of course the center of all the attraction, Dick White.
